Bar-be-que Set At New Hope School

There will be a bar-be-que on Saturday, February 28, at New Hope School. Proceeds from the event will be used to purchase additional books for the school library. Area parents are attempting to upgrade the school library to assist in getting the school accredited. Advance tickets may be purchased from any student or teacher at New Hope. Serving for owners of advance tickets will be from 11:00 until 12:30, and door ticket serving and bar-be-que by the pound will last from 12:30 until sold out.

Kleinerts To Expand Elba Plant

Kleinert's of Elba will announce an expansion of 300-350 people early next week, according to statements by company officials. Meeting with city officials and members of the Industrial Board has been scheduled, and an official announcement will be made at that time. Company officials have promised a detailed news release at the special meeting with city officials. Meanwhile, bits of information have leaked out. Involved in the expansion of the local plant will be the transferring of some responsibilities from the company's North Carolina plant to Elba. Also, requests are being made for state funds for a special training department for the additional machine operators. These funds are available and approval is expected. Expansion of the huge building has not been announced, but it has been discussed that the parking lot needs to be expanded to accommodate the additional automobiles. Kleinert's, which is listed on the American Stock Exchange, works a large number of people in the Elba area. The plant worked full force during the recent recession that saw many industries cutting back on production due to a drop in demand for products. During the past year, Kleinert's employed an average of 625 production workers.

NAMED WOMAN OF ACHIEVEMENT

Mrs. Ringo Honored By BPW

Mrs. Luna Dell Ringo was chosen as Elba's 1976 Woman of Achievement at the Elba Country Club last Monday night, February 9. The program was sponsored by the Elba Business and Professional Women's Club, of which Mrs. Ringo is a member. Mrs. Mable Lawless presided at the ceremony.

Several Women of Achievement honored in past years were introduced and an enjoyable dinner and program was enjoyed by all those attending. Mrs. Betty Adkinson, Mrs. John D. Lowery and Mrs. Nellie Martin presented an interesting "This Is Your Life" program to the many friends and relatives of Mrs. Ringo's. Mrs. Ringo moved to Elba at an early age and has contributed greatly to the community. She was educated in Elba and worked for several firms up until 1939. After the death of her husband, Price Ringo, she returned to work at Dorsey Trailers where she remained until 1962. Upon retiring, Mrs. Ringo has busied herself with social, religious and civic endeavors. In addition to the BPW Club, she is a member of the Elba Music Lovers Club, Azalea Garden Club, Homemakers Club, Pea River Historical and Genealogical Society, D.A.R., American Association of Retired Persons and Eastern Star.

Mrs. Ringo has contributed many hours to worthwhile projects, and her dedication to church and its work is well known by those who know and love her. The commission work will be grand finale to a gala celebration week during which choral directors from the entire United States will study and perform and hear American choral works of two centuries under the leadership of some of the country's most noted authorities and conductors. Numerous foreign countries are attending as official musical ambassadors, and observers. Chorus members representing many facets of U.S. grassroots musical life will perform: a children's choir, a choir, a sacred harp group, etc.

Participation in the chorus is an important honor and exciting opportunity for the singers, considering the thousands of choral musicians in each state and the fact that only four of these may be elected to go to the national celebration. ACDA has over 6,000 choral direct members.

In the letter Butts wrote, "Recognizing that no one can ever adequately replace Judge Paul I nevertheless feel that I have something to offer." The letter also included a statement that he firmly and honestly pledge to the people of Pike and Coffee Counties a fair, equal and impartial administration of the law." Accomplishments listed by Butts include eight years of private law practice, six years as Elba City Judge, one year as Kinston City Judge, two years as Judge of Inferior Court and Judge of Juvenile Court. The latter two positions he is holding at present. He has been a member of the Democratic Executive Committee for six years and is a member of a number of par Associations and is presently serving as a member of the Review Committee of Policies and Procedures of the Alabama State Bar Exam.

Commissioners Approve Clerk For Sheriff

The Coffee County Commission met for its regular session on Monday, February 9. All members were present. One contract was awarded to Petroleum Enterprise for propane gas at $1.76 per gallon, with the understanding that the price would go up or down, according to the price changes in gas.

The Commission voted to buy a cassette recorder for the Sheriff's Office to replace one which was stolen. The original machine was bought with LEPA money for $160.00. They also voted to allocate $100 to the South Alabama State Fair for prize money, and to enter into two agreements with the State of Alabama, one being flood repair work that the county is not able to do; the other is a sign project on a 90-10 basis.

At Commissioner Don Smith's suggestion, the members discussed putting up a Bicentennial flag at the New Brockton Farm Center. This flag, the pole, installation, etc. and report back to the Commission.

Other business included numerous county residents requesting work be done to repair roads, remove trees, do something about water being turned off a public road, drainage problems, to move some dirt. The county engineer, Bernard Richburg, was to look into these various problems.

The Alabama Public Service Commission has NOTHING to do with water and electric rates in Elba, Alabama. This group regulates private enterprise, and the only regulation on non-profit co-ops is by the Federal Power Commission in Washington which sets the rates for current sold to Elba. It is assumed that a non-profit co-op (or community) will not get any more for electricity than is necessary to operate.

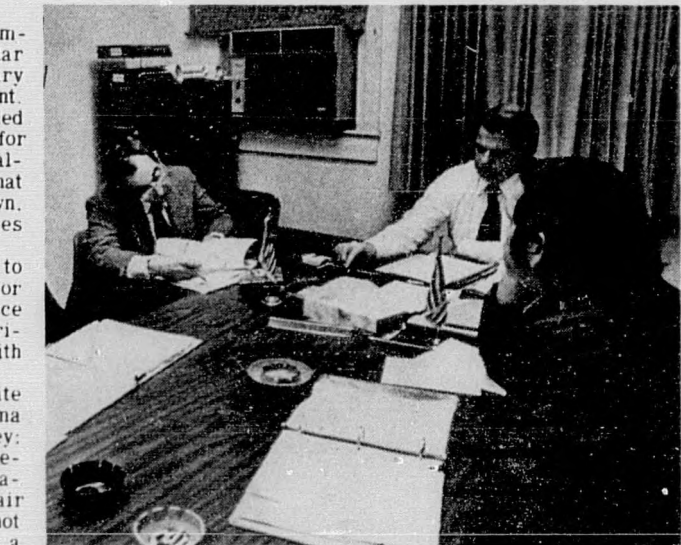

THE ELBA CLIPPER telephoned Commissioner Zeigler and discussed the matter with him. This seemed to defuse the determination, and subsequently a deal was worked out.

Commissioner Zeigler said he was happy to discuss individual problems with any consumer, and even though he was right about his lack of authority in cases such as Elba's, he would still go to the Elba folks if the need arose.

Zeigler suggested that for persons building or remodeling homes, certain economy measures could be taken. He said that at the present rates of electricity and natural gas, it was cheaper to heat with gas and cool with electricity. Also, a clothes dryer operated with gas is cheaper than an electric unit, according to Zeigler.

Elba Citizens In Best Shape On Utilities

A number of local citizens have been howling because their utility bills for the past month are higher than they have ever been. One group of ladies with fire in their eyes attempted to telephone Public Service Commissioner Jim Zeigler on one of the dissatisfied Elba customers, the results were:

If Mr. and Mrs. X, who live in Elba and used 7152 KWH of electricity, had been using Alabama Power Company, their bill would have been $140.34 rather than the $147.54 they paid Elba. This is $7.20 cheaper for the power company, and includes all taxes.

But, that is not the entire story. Elba uses a LEVEE rate - that is, the rate is the same in summer as in winter, except for the fuel adjustment factor. Alabama Power Company has a summer rate that is quite a bit higher. Mr. and Mrs. X would have paid $50.00 more than Elba charges for the 7152 KWH used during the months of May through October if the power had been purchased from Alabama Power Company. This $50.00 does not take into consideration the higher fuel adjustment factor the power company had during the summer months, a factor that would have pushed the bill even higher.

Commissioner Zeigler said he was happy to discuss individual problems with any consumer, and even though he was right about his lack of authority in cases such as Elba's, he would still go to the Elba folks if the need arose.

Zeigler suggested that for persons building or remodeling homes, certain economy measures could be taken. Whitman Not To Seek Re-Election

A surprise announcement was made this week by Coffee County Commissioner Flournoy Whitman, the dean of the Coffee County Commission. After many years of serving the people of Coffee County, he has decided not to run for re-election as your Commissioner from District #2. This has not been an easy decision for me to make after having been elected to serve in office for seven consecutive terms. During my terms in office, I have tried to serve you good people of the County with an open mind to any problems and requests in any way that I could through the Commissioner's Court. My work with the former Commissioners, as well as the present ones, has been very pleasant. I have tried very hard not to disappoint any of you with my services.

Thank you very much for giving me the privilege and honor of representing you for the past 28 years. I appreciate the confidence you placed in me, as well as the full cooperation you have given me during this time.

The Elba Water and Electric Board met Tuesday night and announced a visit to the meeting by a large group of utility users failed to materialize. Mr. Gertrude Boswell said his usage had jumped 25% higher than it had ever been before, and this was out of line with other owners of all-electric homes. The Board told Boswell that its employees would do everything possible to help him find the reason for the high usage, but that he would have to secure private electricians to check the system "past the meter."

The discussion with Boswell came after the members of the Board had heard bond attorney Billy Marx say that before Elba could successfully sell bonds for some needed construction of electric lines, additional revenue must be scheduled. Marx noted that Elba's water rates were lower than average and suggested these rates be raised to insure the ability to repay the borrowed money. He said Elba needed an additional $25,000, and again suggested this could be raised by increasing the water rates.

Board Chairman Charles Hayes suggested that a water engineer be consulted on the matter and no action be taken until the matter had been studied further. He indicated the Board needed to move fast and he would call a special meeting to discuss it when further information was ready.

Board members were presented with the monthly statement of condition of the department. This report indicated the electric department had total sales of electricity of $68,764.41 and operating expenses of $62,706.51, leaving a "profit" of $6,057.90. The water department reported sales of $7,447.26 and expenses of $6,805.83. This left a "profit" of $641.43.

There was no income to the Water and Electric Board from the sewer system. All this money goes to the City General Fund. However, expenses of maintaining the system cost the Board $1,786.42.

Combine these three divisions, and the department showed a profit of $5,320.34. This "profit" is used to repay funds borrowed in years past to construct and upgrade the system.

Current bills presented and approved for payment totaled $4,622.67.

Commissioner Zeigler said he was happy to discuss individual problems with any consumer, and even though he was right about his lack of authority in cases such as Elba's, he would still go to the Elba folks if the need arose.

Zeigler suggested that for persons building or remodeling homes, certain economy measures could be taken. He said that at the present rates of electricity and natural gas, it was cheaper to heat with gas and cool with electricity. Also, a clothes dryer operated with gas is cheaper than an electric unit, according to Zeigler.

Politics are getting hotter and hotter as the day for qualifying gets closer. At press time, a total of eighteen (18) potential candidates have announced they will qualify for some local office shortly after the Democratic Committee meets this Saturday morning in the Elba Courthouse. Even with this number, there are several offices that the incumbent has no announced opponent and one or two in which no one has indicated to us any intentions to run. If you figure that half of those intending to run would bother to stop by early for a chat, then we will have thirty-six names on the May 4 ballot.

Things were looking very gloomy around Elba recently. The community lost a young dentist recently and two medical doctors announced plans to leave. However, there are rumors that at least two medical doctors are interested in moving to Elba. An additional ray of light was seen when officials at Kleiner's began talking about adding 300-350 people to the local payroll. Just how soon this move will take place has not been announced, but company officials are meeting with the Industrial Board and with city officials one day next week and it will be official at that time.

Last week we published two photos of the police car and the flat tire. A city official wanted to know why the officers called me when they had the blow-out. Well, dear hearts, no one had to call me. I was in the Elba Office and heard the big bang. Being the nosy person I am, I ran outside to see what was happening. The pictures were published to point out what the city council has been told several times—the police department is in a cost reduction program. Now I am sure this is not the normal way of cutting and even the tightest of us don't wear tires that thin before replacing them but the point is the officers hear it every day—cut back—park one car and two of you walk etc.

In case you haven't noticed I point with pride to our police department. I will put it up against any department, anywhere. You may be able to point out individual cases where an officer made a mistake but remember they must make a decision often in a split second where folks like me have a whole week between publication dates and plenty of time to think! Monday was my time to furnish the program for Rotary and Police Chief M. Johnston was the speaker. I asked him to tell the group about the department and how the officers were organized to handle any type emergency. This he did and also pointed out that all this was done for about $26,000 less than the national average.

Dr. Romie White announced last week he was leaving Elba and moving to Gadsden. Dr. White has been in Elba a few months and decided he liked the larger city better.

Dr. Bancroft Cooper visited the Elba office Tuesday and said the rumor of his leaving also is true. He will be leaving March 1st to accept a position in emergency medicine at West End Memorial at Birmingham. Doc will be in the Department of Emergency Medicine and will be working a 40-hour week. This will allow him time to go back to school and get some training on new ideas in medicine.

Someone asked me recently about my fishing and had I done any recently. I had to admit that my fishing is a lot of talk and a little actual practice. However, with spring just around the corner and spring being the time more people fish I will tear myself away from this site typewriter and fight for a place at the old fishing hole.

There is a lot of talk about who will be the two main candidates for President of the United States. Well, the Democrats don't have a strong, clear leader, but I think that Humphrey will wind up as the candidate and Carter of Georgia as the runner-up. This is after all the people have had their say and the party regulars speak up and just how it will be. For the Republicans, in spite of all the brave talk of beating Ford, again when the party leaders speak up it will be for Ford. Reagan may or may not get the nod but right now I say the odds are against him cause he dared to challenge the head man. All this is not the way the "book" says we will do it, but looking at actual practice rather than theory, that's the way I see it.

SPEAKING OUT

Dear Sir:

The following statement is submitted for possible publication in your "Letters to the Editor" column. Please print only my initials if you decide to use these thoughts of mine on the new tire law.

I dislike this law because you could ride these tires many more miles even though the law says you need new tires.

A man driving a state trooper car with slick tires should be checked just like an ordinary motorist.

If this law was applied equally, farmers whose wagons and farm trucks which don't get on the road more than a few hundred miles a year, would need new tires also. This will be more expensive than if a farmer simply paid the ticket.

Just think of the new tire law and I think it should be changed.

Sincerely yours, H. Z.

Dear Sir:

I would like the following letter to be published in your Editorial column. I would like to express my opinion on the Recreational Center at Elba, Ala. in Coffee County.

Why is it that every time a boy from Zion Chapel goes to the Center a fight occurs? If I understand it right the Center was built by county funds and not city funds.

And why does the law always back up the Elba boys? Isn't Zion Chapel just as good as Elba? And I think it's time for something to be done about this problem, before someone gets hurt.

Yours truly,
Raymond Nelson

Dear Editor:

would like you to print my feelings about the forthcoming Presidential election in the bi-centennial year.

Every person over eighteen will vote for a candidate who before has one now, one suggestion to a person is to look at the candidate's past office or past public experience. If a person or candidate has had an office before or has one now, one should look at what the candidate has done in his office, then decide whether to vote.

Yours truly,
Douglas Simmons

Dangers Of Child And Family Services Act

Congressman Bill Dickinson

Recently I've received a number of letters from people greatly concerned about a bill that would take their children away from them.

The measure in question is the Child and Family Service Act, which would set up day care centers and make health, education and other "services" available to children.

Briefly, the Child and Family Service Act was first presented to the Congress and subsequently approved in 1971. However, the measure was vetoed by President Nixon as fiscally irresponsible and family weakening. He called it "the most radical piece of legislation to emerge from the 92nd Congress. The Congress failed to override the veto and the measure was killed."

Now, the bill has been reintroduced and hearings have been held in House and Senate Subcommittees. Most of the testimony has been against the legislation.

As I see it, there are many things wrong with the legislation. It duplicates already existing child care programs and could force some private day care centers out of business. But, even more alarming, there is no provision to protect the rights of parents' rights. Indeed, parents who have primary day-to-day responsibility for the care of their children are being placed in a position where they are being asked to give up their responsibility for the child."

The dangerous implication here is that under the provisions of this legislation is so broad that rearing, caring and nurturing functions of parents are being rendered insignificant as an HEW bureaucracy assumes responsibility.

Furthermore, it appears that the bill is really just a vehicle for restructuring society in the image of the woman's lib movement.

Even if Cornea is his daughter, I will say, she has fast on her feet, as the saying goes. And I think her answer to that loaded question was a really fine ad lib. Cornea just smiled sweetly and said, "Well, I'll have been describing me in your ads as 'bottled lightning'—so when George and I watched this show yesterday, he corked me!"

Goodness knows WHAT Betty Ford would have said!

AROUND ALABAMA RUBY

Ruby Folsom Austin

ON THE TRAIL

My daughter, Cornea, and her husband, George Wallace, got in from Boston last week. George was spreading the good word all over Mass. and waving record-breaking crowds as usual. And Cornea was right in there pitching and making speeches herself.

She told me there is a local TV station in Boston that has been interviewing the wives of all the candidates. They had set a date for an interview with Cornea and for several days before the interview, the station had been advertising the fact that Cornea would be on the show.

Now, the Christian Science Monitor, which ranks among the finest newspapers in this country, had run an article on Cornea. They had printed a big picture of her with a caption describing her as "bottled lightning." Frankly, Cornea told me that the "bottle lightning" description was worrying her. It was, after all, a pretty high-powered caption to live up to.

The day before Cornea was to appear on the interview show, she and George watched the show she'd been completely familiar with the format. On that day, the guests were two women who would up debating each other rather than being interviewed. One was Phyllis Schafly, the anti-women's libber who has been out-spoken against the E.R.A. bill backed by women's lib. Her protagonist was Betty Friedman, the well-known writer and a big promoter of the women's lib movement.

Even if Cornea is his daughter, I will say, she has fast on her feet, as the saying goes. And I think her answer to that loaded question was a really fine ad lib. Cornea just smiled sweetly and said, "Well, I'll have been describing me in your ads as 'bottled lightning'—so when George and I watched this show yesterday, he corked me!"

THE PENDULUM SWINGS

Sometimes I think people don't realize what a fantastic impact George has had on national politics. A few years back, it seemed every candidate running sounded liberal, to a greater or lesser degree.

George was saying, all over the country, the things that we down here in Alabama believe in. And he was all by himself saying those things, too. He took a fair share of reviling from all the farout factions, but he just kept right on. He said we Alabamians had made him our spokesman, and speak out he would.

Well, have you all listened to any campaign speeches lately? They're a far cry from what some of the same people were saying awhile back. Not just like warm liberals, but down-right ultra-liberals are now saying exactly the same things George has been saying for years. So George isn't talking out there anymore—they're ALL trying to claim his thoughts for their own.

Yes, sir, George has pushed that pendulum right straight back to the right. PATTY HERSELF!

All this hoopla about the Patty Hearst trial has me downright dizzy. I almost feel I'm the one being brain-washed, with all these pro and con news stories about the trial.

The whole thing is certainly a mystery. I suppose it will all come to light, if that judge doesn't get cozy again about shutting out the press. One thing is certain—that girl has cost everybody a pile of money, her parents and then the U.S.

Thousands were needed to catch her in the first place, and goodness knows what the trial will cost.

Maybe she's been a trial to her parents before all this started. She was after all, living with some boy when the S.L.A. got her. What some people call the "morality" I call no morality at all, but a lack of morals.

Or maybe "alley-cat morality" would suit better.

So far, there is one really puzzling thing about the whole case. If, as her defense insists, she was brain-washed (which must have been a through laundry job), lasted for two years while she high-tailed it around the country, who's UN-brain-washed her?

Her brain must have been a little soapy when she was first caught, because she was still giving the clenched fist salute to the court. Now, after four months in the hoosegow, she's given up the revolution—hardened criminal that she is, she's back to being a harmless little rich girl.

I wonder if it ever occurred to anybody that just being in a pretty good UN-brain-washer. Some folks say being in jail often turns people into hardened criminals. Well, I think a stint behind bars more often has the opposite effect. If there was ever any appeal in being a revolutionary, the glamour and/or brainwashing sure must fade away fast behind bars.

Family Living Class Learns Embroidery

The Family Living Class taught by Miss Jane Smith is studying independent living. The class which is composed of both boys and girls are being taught how to mend their garments and have also learned 5 embroidery stitches.

Miss Smith with the help of the female class members have taught the boys to sew on buttons, thread the sewing machines, and repair rips. They decided to try some embroidery for fun and the boys really loved it. They are now creating their own designs for Thomas, Arnold, Charles, Flowers, Boyd Killingsworth, James Miller, Raymond Nelson, Larry Pearson, Grady Quattlebaum, and Tim Wambles.

EDITORIAL

What's happening to us that classrooms at school have to be locked so that they won't be messed up? Can we no longer go in a room, sit, talk, or study without having to bring in bottles and spill their contents, jerk the blinds up and down, push the desks out of order, scribble on the blackboards, and horsplay until we tear up something? It's a great inconvenience to us who know how to properly act in a room, when we have to suffer because of a growing number who do not. Let's wise up, we don't want to go through life locked out of everything, and it's a possibility some of us will wind up locked up.

FROM THE YOUNG REBELS

Second grade students not only have opportunity to study past history and customs of our country, they experience some of the customs practiced in the earlier years of the mixing of their country. Pictured are second grade students as they handle valentines and write Valentine messages. Mrs. Rea Young feels this activity not only will build appreciation for the past but will encourage creativity and self-esteem in the young student.

Rebel To Remember

Gail Davis has always been a very sweet person who has brought smiles to everyone's day. She always has a great sense of humor but becomes very serious when problems arise at school. I'm sure we will all miss Gail when she graduates from Zion Chapel this year.

Gail comes from a large family of six brothers and three sisters. Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. H.K. Davis of Route one, Elba.

VALENTINE SWEETHEART

The Newspaper recently named couples to be chosen for Valentine Sweethearts for 1976. Mr. and Mrs. H.K. Davis came from grades 7-12. The lucky couple chosen as Valentine Sweethearts for 1976 are Mr. and Mrs. H.K. Davis.

Teachers remember their younger days. Mr. Pat Powell, Mr. Mike Lindsey, Mrs. Sylvia Hudson, Mrs. Alene Lee.

Math Team Attends Tournament At Andy

On Friday, January 30, 1976, the Elba High School math team attended the Seventh Annual Mathematics Tournament held at Lurien B. Wallace Junior College in Andalusia. The purpose of this tournament was to recognize outstanding mathematics among students at all levels. The team participated in both ciphering contests and written tests involving algebra, geometry, trigonometry, and analysis problems.

Members of the team attending the tournament were Bill Brunson, Mark Kelly, Debbie Lee, and Regina Towles. Ten alternates accompanied the team. These included Kenneth Bryan, Comic Carpenter, Russ

Cash, Sam Devane, Johnny Dyess, Mark Hamm, Julie Holliday, Susan Jones, Chuck Mack, and Mike Rich.

The math team returned to Elba with two hard-earned trophies. The team won second place in the overall competition in class AA. Bill Brunson won the second place AA trophy in the individual awards.

Senior Of The Week

Chosen to represent EHS as senior of the week for this week is Janice Donaldson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R.S. Donaldson. Janice's subjects this year are V.I.E., Economics & English Literature. She is also a nurse's aide at the hospital from 7 till 10. When asked for her opinion of the school, this was her reply, "EHS is great because between Elba and another, I'd choose Elba." In the improvement department Janice would like to see a couple of teacher's attitudes change and the lunch improved. Janice, pet peeve is two-faced people. Janice is a member of the Beta Club, YCA, FHA, and 4-H and Actives in which she holds the office of president. Janice plans to work a while and then go to the University of Alabama to get her B.S. Janice lists her interests and hobbies as a certain sailor, music, writing poetry, reading and going to the Pizza Hut. Janice attends Wise's M.I. Assembly of God Church where she is in the choir. Good luck in the future!

WHAT ARE YOUR CONCERNS?

What are your concerns as you push your cart down the aisles at the supermarket? A recent survey found that shoppers were most concerned about making sure their families got the nourishment they needed. Ranking almost as high was concern for saving money on food.

Those shoppers who know something about nutrition realized it's possible to follow a budget and still eat nourishing food. Shoppers were less concerned about preparing meals the family would enjoy. Last on the list was the concern about finding time to prepare meals and looking for new ways to prepare food. How would you rate your concern?

INCOME Several of my Coffee County farm friends remind me that even though peanuts are bringing record prices that does not mean that farmers are doing that much better than they used to. In fact, Rolloan Day, chairman of the Coffee County ASCS Committee, pointed out that prices can be misleading. For example, even though peanuts averaged about $400 a ton this past year Day said that the hidden costs of storage, inspection, etc. would amount to about $30 per ton. Costs of production are going up.

An economist told me recently that in the future we should expect to pay more for goods and services and expect less for the things we buy. In other words, it appears that inflation is going to continue. This is one reason why I am concerned about the peanut program in the immediate future. We will just have to wait and see how things develop.

YOUNG FARMERS We have had several short-courses the past three months dealing with a lot of subjects. I am well pleased to see young farmers like Al Britt of Route 4, Enterprise, Kenneth Sanders of Route 2, Brundage, Bob Helms of Mt. Pleasant Community College, and others attending also.

We believe that we will have to do over our educational programs. We are going to try to provide Coffee County farmers with the very latest in research information. A few years back we were not getting many young farmers into agriculture, but in the past five years this is changing and it is refreshing to see young men developing.

COFFEE CONSERVATION BY: Hughes Clark & Faulk

Conservation programs ultimately benefit everyone, but farmers and other rural landowners are the principal caretakers of our resources. Their stewardship will continue," W. B. Lingle, head of the U.S. Department of Agriculture's Soil Conservation Service in Alabama, said, "because most of our natural resources—soil, grass, trees, and our watersheds—are under private rural ownership. Towns and cities occupy a very small portion of our available space."

"This means the farmer who cooperates with a soil and water conservation district, and who is carrying out a conservation plan on his property, is the backbone of America's conservation programs."

"For the farmer, the conservation plan means preserving basic raw materials—the soil—and using it in such a way as to maintain a long-term profitable operation," Lingle said.

"For the non-farmer, the conservation plan means a more stable supply of food, meat, milk, grain and non-food necessities such as wood and fibre. Indeed, the conservation farming are evident and easy for the entire community to work with urban interests or farmers is the soil survey," Lingle said. Interpretive maps made from these surveys can show community planners features about the soil—overflow areas, shallow soils, areas where erosion must be strengthened to withstand soil pressure and other soil and water-related problems. Soil surveys are prepared by the Soil Conservation Service in cooperation with Alabama Agricultural Experiment Stations and the Alabama Department of Agriculture and Industries.

Farmers use the soil surveys and similar interpretive maps to help plan the best use of their land.

"The economic and physical benefits of conservation programs work to the rural landowners, and to their city neighbors, are evident in higher crop yields, clearer waterways, safer communities, and recreation and a better environment," Lingle concluded.

Young people make good conservationists. Many soil and water conservation districts are realizing this and are offering senior high students a chance to participate in conservation planning and action.

Soil Conservation Service Administrator M. D. Dugan applauded this innovative district endeavor in a statement in SOIL CONSERVATION MAGAZINE.

Conservation districts have organized more than 160 Youth Boards over the nation with district leaders giving assistance and guidance to the young people.

KINSTON SCHOOLS CELEBRATE HOMECOMING

A pre-noon downpour and heavy, threatening skies, failed to dampen the spirits of students and residents of Kinston last Friday afternoon when the small south Alabama community celebrated homecoming, with its annual parade.

The parade, which included over 50 units, began at Kinston High School, and weaved its way to the town's business district, where hundreds of spectators were lined up to view the floats, cars, beautiful girls, and the newly organized Kinston High School Marching Band.

All entrants in the parade were in competition for prizes and ribbons. The floats were judged on originality, creativity, best incorporation of theme, and originality of theme. The judges for the event were: Ricky Mullars, sports editor of the Elba Clipper; Joy Cook, Ladies hostess on WAMI radio, of Opp; and Mike Capps, a student at Troy State University.

The "Grand Prize" winner was the float, made by Mr. Harper's 10th graders, entitled "HAPPY BIRTHDAY AMERICA".

The second prize float was built by Mrs. Hattaway's seventh graders, section II, and used the theme "Ring in '76".

The third place float was built by the first and third graders, and carried the theme "Ring in '76".

The best decorated car was sponsored by the Music Club. Perhaps the feature of the parade was the appearance of the Kinston High School "Marching Orange and Blue". The band has been in existence only two months, and the parade was its first public appearance. Band members were dressed in colorful orange and blue outfits, and presented their rendition of "Amazing Grace" before the large crowd gathered downtown.

The Homecoming Queen, Miss Betty Fuller, was formally crowned prior to the basketball game Friday night. Miss Fuller's attendants were Misses Sue Norris and Rita Davis.

The Kinston Bulldogs defeated Wicksburg in the homecoming game, topping off a memorable day for the residents and visitors of the homecoming activities!

Grand Prize Winner. "Happy Birthday America" - made by Mr. Harper's tenth graders.

Beautiful girls add to any parade.

1975-76 Miss Kinston - Julia Helms.

Kinston High School band makes first public appearance in parade. Band was formed only 2 months ago.

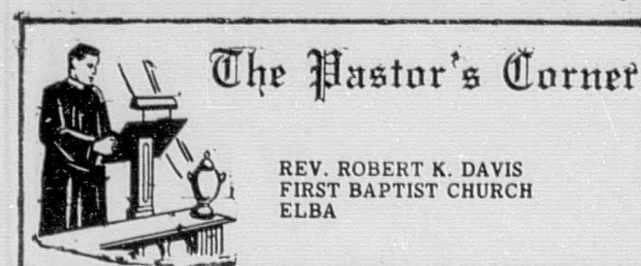

3rd Place Winner features Halloween King and Queen.

EXPRESSING LOVE

The story is told of an attractive young lady who was in love with a man who was soon to leave as a missionary to another land. He had written asking her to marry him, stating in his letter that if she sent no answer, he would consider it a refusal.

She sat down at one time and wrote of her acceptance, and because it was a rainy day, her brother offered to take the letter to the post office. Weeks and months passed by, then years, and she never heard any word from him. It was many years later that the family, in the process of moving, found an old coat that belonged to her brother. When the pockets were turned inside out, there was the letter, just as she had given her brother to mail to the one she loved. It had never been sent.

OLD ADVICE-STILL GOOD! Recently Dr. Charles W. Shedd, a nationally syndicated newspaper columnist and author of several books on family life, came to a nearby city for a conference.

Dr. Shedd and I have corresponded with each other for a long time, but we had never met. He lives in California, and that's a long way from here! I attended evening conference in a prominent Presbyterian church and when the meeting adjourned, I introduced myself.

A look of her neck came over his face and he said, "Why, what are you doing here?" He didn't realize I lived only 50 miles away. He was introduced to his wife of 38 years, Martha, who according to Dr. Shedd, is just "fabulous" over her husband. He added that the reason she is so much in love with him is because she finds something good to say about her each day. I told him that Dr. Shedd finds a new compliment each week.

HEALTH FOR ALL

HOW TO STOP SMOKING

Here's what two women did: One lady said, "I eliminated smoking episodes one by one, and I trained myself not to smoke. The first thing I wanted to do was to quit my car. I could smoke any time of the day, a thousand cigarettes, if I wanted to, but smoking was just out of the question. Then the next cigarette I eliminated was the one before lunch and breakfast. I wanted to double up that was OK. One by one I went through and gradually eliminated every single smoking situation."

Another lady has a different story. "By not buying them, I didn't have any to smoke. My husband does smoke and the first couple of weeks I was sneaking around getting butts out of ashtrays. I decided this really wasn't doing me any good. I was still smoking. My husband knew I was trying to quit smoking, so he would hide his cigarettes from me, and after a while I really didn't have any cigarettes to smoke. So I just didn't smoke anymore."

Arc Welding In Progress At Elba School

Basic Arc Welding classes for adults are now in progress at the Elba Area Vocational School.

The course began last Monday night, February 16 in the welding shop at the Arc Center.

Any adult interested in taking this course may still contact Mr. Charles Pearce, 7 & 1 Coordinator at 877-2266 or 877-2170, night, or Mr. Donald Lawford, instructor, at 877-6667 (night).

Classes will meet on Tuesday and Thursday nights at 6:00 o'clock.

Cyclethon Planned For Heart Fund

There will be a Heart Fund Cyclethon this Saturday, February 21, beginning at the National Guard Armory.

Students in grades 7 - 12 and any interested adults are invited to participate, and should be at the armory at 9:30 a.m. The ride will begin at 10:00.

Permittion slips and pledge sheets are available through the homeroom teachers.

Mr. Bo Dunaway is the chairman for this event.

In case of rain, the Cyclethon will be held the following Saturday.

HEART SUNDAY

Sunday is Heart Sunday, and a Heart Fund representative will call at each home to receive donations. Seventy-five percent of this money will remain in Coffee County, so give generously, urges Mrs. Marsha Oakes, Heart Fund Chairman.

In case of rain, this drive will be postponed until the following week.

Holiday Swim Ends In Tragedy Monday

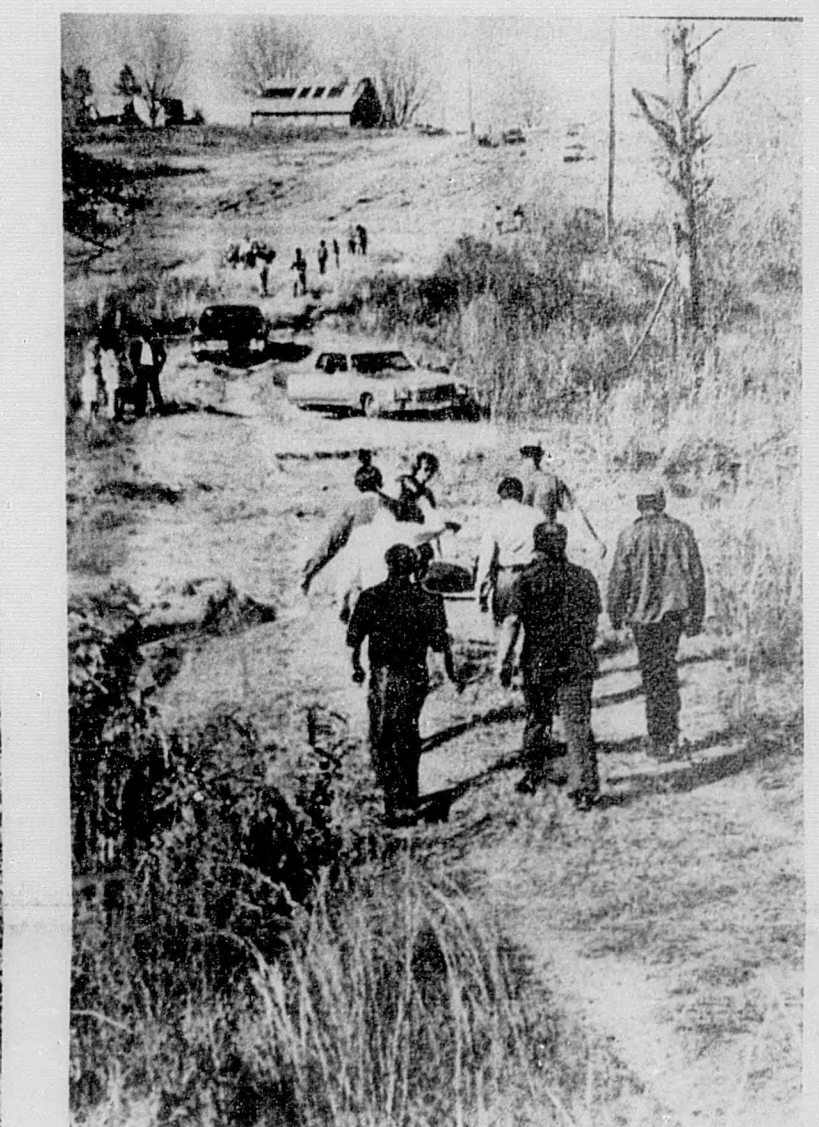

A holiday swimming trip on the first warm day of spring ended in tragedy for ten year old Grover Williams, Jr. Monday afternoon.

Coffee County schools were closed Monday for President's Day and young Williams followed a group of older boys to the farm swimming hole. He dove in and being unable to swim he quickly sank to the bottom of the small man-made pond in the Shiloh Community near New Brockton. His companions were unable to retrieve him and ran home to spread the alarm.

The youths called the New Brockton police department which sounded the alarm to the Elba Rescue Squad for divers to retrieve the body. The divers were able to find the youth on the first dive, using information furnished by the other youths on the holiday swim. He was pronounced dead by Commander Marvin McIlwain of Elba. The cause was accidental drowning.

Young Williams was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Grover Williams Sr. Mr. Williams works at Sessions Co. in Enterprise and Mrs. Williams works at Alalex, also in Enterprise.

Mrs. Williams was at work at the time of the accident and Mr. Williams was in the Enterprise courthouse.

Kleinert's Tells Of Expansion Plans

The Elba City Council, the Industrial Development Board and others were guest Tuesday at a news conference and luncheon in the conference room of Kleinert's. Hosts at the meeting were the management personnel of the local plant.

The purpose of the event was to officially announce the expansion of the local Kleinert's plant which was reported in THE ELBA CLIPPER last week. However, Plant Manager Arnold Chafin noted that the high number of new employees mentioned in last week's news article was "somewhat high."

He said the figure of 100 would be more accurate.

Chafin gave the group attending a short history of the company including the present

Council Pledges Help Securing Doctors For Elba

The Elba City Council met Tuesday night and a possible repeal of the fight over the proposed additional sales tax failed to develop. The council did mention the additional tax but after a report by City Clerk Jack Prescott on the current status of the various bank accounts, the group moved on to other business without any action for, against or even an acknowledgment that they were moving on to other business.

The council first talked with members of the hospital board and at the last with the hospital administrator who arrived late, after a trip to Birmingham. Members of the hospital board attending the meeting ing were George Collier, Jimmy Wise and Lister Brunson. They began by acknowledging that there is a medical problem in Elba and therefore at the hospital, because if there are fewer doctors, there are fewer patients in the hospital. This causes a shortage of money and must be offset with a cutback of services and/or personnel.

This statement was made by Brunson who also told of some contact he had made in seeking another doctor for Elba.

Collier told the council that Administrator Jim Nichols was doing a wonderful job and was working hard to solve the doctor problem.

After Nichols arrived at the meeting he told the council the status of his efforts to secure doctors. It was much the same report he had given the Elba Rotary Club on Monday. Nichols told both groups that it was going to take a community effort to let prospective doctors know they would be accepted by the people of the area. He suggested a committee to coordinate with the Board in carrying out this project.

He said, "We don't need just any doctor, we want one that can live with us and that we can live with." Nichols also suggested that the idea of a medical clinic "shopping center" be looked into with the idea of offering prospective doctors and dentist modern facilities on a rent basis.

After the Board members left the council voted to appoint a committee and instruct the City Clerk to contact Charles Hayes III has agreed to act as temporary chairman of the group. If these eleven would serve, they are to meet with Administrator Nichols to map out plans for the projects.

The council discussed the landfill behind National Security and it was decided that it became a fire or drainage problem, the action would be ordered halted but that if it was only a problem of drainage between two landowners, the city had no involvement.

Mayor Sam Sawyer reported that letters had been sent to congressmen seeking a $100,000 grant for improvement of the electric system.

A resolution will be signed by the entire council assuring the management of Kleinert's that the City will help their expansion plan in any way possible.
